

SAFETY EXCELLENCE FOR LEADERS

Safety Excellence for Leaders is a two-hour workshop designed specifically for senior business leaders in New Zealand's construction industry. Learn how to lead and build a positive health and safety culture in your organisation and move beyond compliance. Understand what drives improved safety performance and gain the confidence to influence your contractors, employees and organisation through practical steps.

Who Should Attend This Workshop?

Senior leaders of small to medium construction/associated companies, including:

- › Chief executives
- › Directors
- › Business owners
- › Senior managers e.g. General Managers/Operations Managers
- › Senior executives

Course Outline

This interactive workshop takes the form of a facilitated discussion, where participants learn from their peers, real-life case studies and roleplays. Led by an experienced health and safety professional, this workshop encourages active debate on how to influence and lead the change in health and safety culture. Participants will be challenged to re-evaluate where their organisation stands on key health and safety indicators, and emerge with clear action plans to address their pain points.

Leading safety excellence – What it really means

- › People and Business Benefits – Know it, own it
- › Compliance – Understand it and move beyond it
- › Culture – Evaluate and lead the change
- › Get involved – Communicate confidently and influence positively
- › Measure what matters – Re-evaluate what's measured
- › Identify key areas of improvement and formulate an action plan

Improving ongoing health and safety knowledge

We recommend a one-on-one mentoring session with one of our health and safety consultants. Visit sitesafe.org.nz to find out more.
